Clinical Evidence: Period Pain & Related Symptoms

New clinical evidence from Australian Clinical Case Studies in 2019 supports the use of khaya in the treatment of acute menstrual symptoms. The khaya formula khapregesic® was prescribed by a natural health practitioner to 24 patients. Of those patients being treated for Period Pain and other related symptoms, 92% of patients experienced some degree of abdominal pain relief. Of those patients who reported associated anxiety prior to the commencement of the case studies, 70% reported anxiety relief. There was also a significant improvement in sleep patterns and improvement in other gut related symptoms such as bloating and diarrhoea (33).
